Purpose

Consortium agreements allow students to be considered enrolled at their home institution while taking coursework at another (host) institution. In this context, the home institution is the institution granting the students degree, certificate, or other recognized educational credential. The host institution is the institution that the student is "visiting" under the agreement.

As a rule, coursework taken outside the credential-granting institution is ineligible for federal financial aid funds because only a regular student may receive federal financial aid. The purpose of this agreement is to extend regular student status to CPCC students taking pre-approved coursework at a host school.

Enrollment Status

The student is responsible for informing the Financial Aid Office at CPCC of their expected enrollment status at both institutions. CPCC will award the student financial aid based on the enrollment status as determined by combining the coursework to be taken at the host school and CPCC. After classes begin, CPCC will confirm actual enrollment and revise, if necessary, aid awards to reflect the actual enrollment status. At CPCC's request, the host institution will provide CPCC documentation supporting the student's enrollment status. This documentation must include credit hours enrolled, enrollment period beginning and ending dates, and a list of specific courses the student is taking.

If the student's enrollment changes during the enrollment period at the host school, it is the host school's responsibility to inform CPCC of this change in enrollment status. Should the student fail to officially withdraw but cease attendance in all classes, the host school will notify CPCC of the student's unofficial withdrawal from classes in accordance with 34 CFR 668.22.

CPCC defines the host students' enrollment status based on credit hours enrolled per semester at the end of CPCC's Drop/Add period. The following table is used to determine the student's enrollment status:

	Credit Hours
Full Time	12 or more
Three-Quarter Time	9 – 11
Half-Time	6 – 8
Less Than Half-Time	1 – 5

Return to Title IV

This section only applies to students who cease total enrollment at both the host institution and CPCC during the payment period. Those students who drop all classes are affected.

Each school agrees to comply with the Federal Return to Title IV policy requirements (34 CFR 668.22). If the student is only taking coursework at the host institution during the payment period, the host institution will calculate the Return to Title IV Refunds.

Disbursing and Distributing Aid

CPCC will disburse Title IV federal financial aid.
