

CPCC is about dreams.

When Central Piedmont Community College Paralegal Technology student Amanda McCrea was making career plans, she wanted to do something that would help others. A career in the legal profession offered everything she was looking for. And CPCC had just the program that would open doors so she could realize her dream.

CPCC offers hundreds of degree, diploma, and certification programs; customized corporate training; market-focused continuing education; and special interest classes to meet the education needs of this community.

Find out what Central Piedmont Community College can offer you. No matter where you're going, CPCC helps you Get There.
