CENTRAL PIEDMONT COMMUNITY COLLEGE

GED / Adult Basic Skill Learning Lab

Located throughout the community, the GED /Adult Basic Skill Learning labs provide ample opportunity for students to pursue high school diplomas and improve basic skills for personal satisfaction.

Students of all ages and levels of achievement participate in the self-paced, computer-based instruction. Instructors and support staff are on duty at all times to assist the students' goals.

Extended hours of operation make this an ideal option for students seeking to enhance their educational achievements.

Tutors Needed

Volunteer tutors play a vital role in assisting individual students achieve their goals. Tutors may volunteer to tutor the same student on a regular basis or drop in the lab and tutor any student needing help at that time. New tutors are always welcome!

Subjects for Tutoring

Students seek assistance in areas of basic reading and math through high school science, social studies, language arts and writing with some higher level math including algebra and geometry. Tutors have the option of tutoring in areas of instruction where they feel most comfortable.

NOTE:

New tutors are asked to attend a brief orientation prior to tutoring. Materials used in the labs and basic operational information will be covered in the orientation.
