

Tom Fisher

CPCC Class of 1975, Associate Degree

(additional courses in computer languages and computer information systems 1979-1980)

Chief Information Officer, DriveCam Inc., San Diego, California.

Tom Fisher is a Charlotte native, CPCC alumnus, and the current Chief Information Officer of California-based DriveCam Inc.

After earning his associate degree from CPCC in 1975, Tom went on to receive a bachelor's degree in political science. A few years later, Tom realized that his true calling and passion was in computer information and data management. So, Tom came back to CPCC, the place he knew he could get the critical skills needed in computer operations and applications to launch his career. It's a career and life-choice that Tom still finds exciting, challenging, and thrilling.

Tom is enthusiastic when describing the positive results of his educational pursuits at CPCC. Mr. Fisher wants other students to realize the value and the potential that CPCC offers to those who have dreams and goals and the desire for success.

Mr. Fisher's professional accomplishments are as impressive as his educational successes. His professional titles have included vice president, CIO, and CTO at such notable companies as QUALCOMM, eBay, Gateway Computers, CDMA Technologies, and IBM.

Mr. Fisher holds advisory board positions for venture capital firms, Fortune 500 companies, and smaller private firms. Mr. Fisher also formed a board that showcases technology innovators to venture capitalists and business leaders.

Central Piedmont Community College is proud to recognize the success and accomplishments of alumnus Tom Fisher.