Construction Management Academy
Not everyone wants to grow up so that they can… sit in an office!

Construction jobs in North Carolina and South Carolina will continue to grow over the next decade, and management positions in particular earn great salaries!

Just look around you—construction on every scale, everywhere. High-rise, low-rise, housing, schools, shopping malls.

Start your studies early toward a career in construction management. Students who start in this program may someday become general contractors, foremen, or assistant superintendents, or can go on to earn degrees in engineering or related fields.

Academy curriculum:

• Blueprint Reading for Construction (BPR 130)
• Residential Building Codes (CAR 114)
• Introduction to Communication (COM 110)
• Professional Construction Supervision (CMT 210)
• Total Safety Performance (CMT 212)

Benefits:

• Upon successful completion of Construction Management Academy, students have acquired 14 credits toward the Associate in Applied Science (AAS) Construction Management Technology Degree
• Upon successful completion of Construction Tech I & II in high school (with articulation) students will have two additional credits – CAR 110
• Upon completion of the above, students will need only one class, Carpentry I (CAR 111-) , to complete Fast Track Carpentry Certificate

The Construction Management Academy gives students a solid foundation to take with them to a two-year or four-year program of higher education.
